General Comment

Mrs. Obama

I am seriously concerned with the impact your campaign against childhood obesity is having on children who have eating disorders.

Should your campaign not be to promote eating to be healthy, not eating to be "thin" every body needs healthy food. Have you done your research on children with eating disorders and how this affects the families with children who are striving to keep their child healthy and alive. Please try to incorporate all children in the wording on you legislation to stress personal health not appearance.
